Senate Moves To Pay Alaskan Natives $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed Monday a bill to pay $1 billion to Alaska natives in settlement of their ownership claims to most of the vast land mass which the United States bought for $7.2 million a century ago.

Sponsors of the bill, which sailed through the Senate 76 to 5, said the $1 billion plus an accompanying land grant would be a just settlement of aboriginal claims which have been recognized since the territory was purchased from Russia in 1867.

The bill calls for $500 million in federal funds, $500 million in mineral production royalties from Alaska public lands and alternate land grant proposals.

The natives—55,000 Eskimos, Aleuts and Indians—would be given the option of voting on whether to accept either 40 million acres near their villages, plus mineral rights, or title to 30 million acres and the right to use an additional 20 million acres.

Little opposition was voiced in debate on the Senate bill, which will be sent to a conference with the House. The conferees will seek to resolve differences between the Senate and House versions.

The House bill would provide $425 million from the federal treasury, $500 million in mineral royalties which otherwise would go to the state and 40 million acres of land.

The Senate rejected by voice vote an amendment which would have retained for the federal government all mineral rights in the Navy Petroleum Reserve. The bill would give the few native villages within the reserve full ownership of lands they occupy, including sub-surface minerals.

Red China's Flag Raised At U.N. Headquarters

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Red China's flag was raised at U.N. headquarters Monday, but China's seat in the meeting hall remained vacant a week after the General Assembly's decision to seat the Peking government.

U.N. officials said they had heard nothing on the composition of the Chinese Communist delegation or its arrival time, beyond the terse message that a delegation to the assembly would be sent "in the near future."

Speculation persisted, however, that the delegation would arrive Thursday or Friday and that it would be headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua.

The only thing definite so far is that the Peking government wants to be listed alphabetically with the English letter "C" as "China, People's Republic of." This word came in a cable to Secretary-General U Thant from Red China's Acting Foreign Minister Chen Peng-fei.

The message, received Sunday, cleared the way for the flag-raising, which took place Monday morning in a light drizzle. The red flag, with five gold stars, was hoisted up, in alphabetical order with those of 130 other members, by two U.N. guards, Willard Bodie and George Baldwin, who are Americans.

No U.N. officials or U.N. diplomats were present. Chi's message cleared up another problem which had threatened to create difficulties in the U.N. Security Council in the event of a sudden crisis.

In a cable dated Oct. 30, Thant pointed out that if the Peking government decided to list its name as "People's Republic of China," it would be entitled to assume the presidency of the 15-nation council for the month of November.

Red China's choice of the listing as "China, People's Republic of" removed this possibility. As a result, Polish Ambassador Eugeniusz Kulaga, assumed the presidency Monday. Peking's turn will not come for almost a year, under the alphabetical rotation.

Peking has said nothing so far about a delegation for the Security Council. Its Oct. 29 message mentioned only a delegation to the 26th session of the General Assembly.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A cyclone and 16-foot tidal wave have slammed into India's east coast, and political leaders reported the loss of 15,000 to 20,000 lives in this latest major natural disaster on the rim of the Bay of Bengal.

The wave and 100-mile-an-hour winds hit Friday night, but the devastation was so complete that word of its catastrophic proportions did not reach the outside world until Monday.

The Indian government radio reported a million homes destroyed or damaged, leaving four million persons without shelter. The broadcast put the death toll at 10,000.

The political leaders gave their estimates of the higher toll after a tour of the stricken area—in India's Orissa State.

The wave submerged scores of villages and islands in much the same way that a 30-foot tidal wave swept through the Ganges River Basin of East Pakistan a year ago and left 300,000 persons dead.

This new tidal wave hit the mainland near Cuttack, 225 miles southwest of Calcutta and about 300 miles southwest of the Ganges Basin.

Cyclones and tidal waves are annual occurrences in the Bay of Bengal at this time of year, sometimes lashing India and other times East Pakistan.

Seventy-two hours after the storm had struck, most of the affected villages were still cut off from the rest of the country. All rail lines, roads and air strips were submerged or destroyed.

Most of the damage occurred in the two northeastern Orissa coastal districts of Cuttack and Balesore.

Orissa, which has a population of 20 million, is one of the most backward states in India.

Cuttack district is filled with almost primitive tribes known as the Adivasis—or ancient dwellers—who are descendants of people who lived in the area before the Aryan invasions 1,000 years before Christ.

The annual monsoon floods caused extensive damage throughout the eastern region in September.

Additionally, the economy of the entire eastern region has been disrupted in the past seven months by what has been described locally as the human tidal wave of more than nine million refugees who have fled into India from crisis-torn East Pakistan.

Some refugees who have been moved to Orissa from West Bengal were among the victims of this weekend's storm, according to the Indian radio.

Laird Deplores Scuttling Of Aid Program

Agency Refuses To Ban DDT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency refused once again Monday to order an immediate ban on DDT.

Hearings are continuing however, which may lead eventually to such an order against the pesticide.

EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus said the hearings should wind up in December and a final decision will be announced by next March 18, and probably earlier.

Under the federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rhodenticide Act, pesticides must be registered with EPA for interstate commerce.

Last Jan. 7, in a suit brought by a citizens group called Environmental Defense Fund, the U.S. Court of Appeals here ordered EPA to start a review which may lead to cancellation of DDT's registration.

It also ordered EPA to consider suspending the registration in the meantime, a move that would take DDT off the market while the lengthy cancellation review went on.

EPA began the cancellation procedure last Jan. 15, but on March 18 it refused to suspend the DDT registration.

Environmental Defense Fund has been fighting the indiscriminate use of DDT for years, contending it kills off desirable as well as undesirable insects and animals, and that it may have even more serious environmental effects, getting into food chains and posing a possible hazard of cancer in animals and perhaps man.

American Troop Strength Drops Below 200,000

SAIGON (AP) — American troop strength in South Vietnam dropped below 200,000 Monday for the first time in nearly six years.

The U.S. Command said the number of American troops in the war zone decreased by 5,300 men during the last week to 196,700—the lowest since January 1966. There were 196,400 U.S. servicemen in Vietnam then.

Peak U.S. strength 2½ years ago was 543,000.

The headquarters of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams also announced that 13 more U.S. Army units, totaling 1,335 men, were pulled out of combat Monday. The new cutback came only a day after the command reported the standdown of almost 3,000 American troops and deactivation of the U.S. Americal Division.

The accelerated troop cutback came as informants disclosed that Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird is bringing to Saigon Wednesday a broad outline of President Nixon's plans for what may be the definitive disengagement of U.S. combat forces.

The informants said the Nixon administration is probably thinking in terms of a residual force of 40,000 to 50,000 men—perhaps even fewer—by July 1. Laird will spend three days here meeting with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker. Abrams, President Nguyen Van Thieu and other South Vietnamese officials.

RECOGNITION FOR STUDENTS PLANNED

A Presidential Environmental Merit Awards Program is being established to recognize the achievements of high school students who have made constructive environmental contributions during the scholastic year. William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, right, presents a brochure of the program to President Nixon.

Federal Judge Refuses To Halt Underground Nuclear Explosion

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge turned aside for the second time Monday attempts by environmentalists to halt a giant underground nuclear explosion set to go off within days on a remote Alaskan island.

U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr. ruled that seven organizations headed by the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility failed to prove that the government did not adequately consider potential environmental dangers of the blast on Amchitka Island.

The conservationists said they would appeal immediately to the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington.

The appeals court already has turned down one request for a temporary injunction against the blast—reportedly set to go off Thursday with the equivalent force of five million tons of TNT.

But that ruling occurred before Hart was ordered by the appeals court to study secret documents the environmentalists say will prove the explosion can trigger earthquakes or tidal waves, release radioactive waste into the air, or injure wildlife.

The appeals court also told Hart to turn over to the environmentalists all of the documents from four government agencies which showed any potential environmental damage. Hart said he did so reluctantly and added: "When I got through reading all this material on atomic explosions, I couldn't help feeling it was a tempest in a teapot."

Hart ordered some of the documents turned over to the conservationists and others

Elections Across The Country Watched For Trends For '72

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elections across the country Tuesday are being watched for trends and hints for the presidential politics of 1972 despite a remarkable absence of national involvement in most of them.

The Kentucky gubernatorial race has been billed locally as a test of the Nixon administration but the national GOP has been careful to leave it strictly to the home team.

Kentucky is one of those border states President Nixon needs to fare well in to win reelection next year. Republicans took the governorship four years ago and are fighting uphill to keep it.

Wendell Ford, the insurance man nominated by the Democrats, has referred to his campaign as the first step in the overturn of Nixon. Thomas Emberton, the GOP nominee, has tried to hold the campaigning to state issues but has been forced to defend Nixon.

Despite this scenario begging for the national parties to send in their big guns, it hasn't happened.

New Jersey voters, who turned the state legislature over to the GOP in a big way in 1967, are expected to give the Democrats a little ground back but probably not enough to stake any trends on.

Still New Jersey stands as one of the next best things to a crystal ball available this year. The 1967 GOP swing foreshadowed a Nixon victory in that state in 1968 and election of a Republican governor in 1969.

The national excitement generated over the mayoral contests on Tuesday's ballots has been more for the good, old-fashioned political scrapping than for national portent.

But the nationally sensitive issues of race and law-and-order See ELECTION, Page 2

Queen Elizabeth II Under Special Guard

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard detectives took emergency security steps Monday to protect Queen Elizabeth II after two bombs exploded in London and terrorists struck with explosives and bullets in North Ireland.

Police looking for bombs prowled stone vaults and subterranean passages beneath Britain's Houses of Parliament, where the Queen attends a glittering state opening ceremony Tuesday.

A telephone caller warned that the tower above the royal entrance would be blown up.

Detectives checked suspects of two sabotage groups: The Irish Republican Army, which is fighting to drive British troops out of Northern Ireland, and the so-called Angry Brigade, a secret London movement dedicated to overthrowing British society.

The London blasts were a Sunday explosion that shattered three floors of the Post Office Tower—the highest building in Britain—and another Monday morning at an army barracks near Parliament.

In Northern Ireland, terrorists planted a duffel-bag bomb and blew apart the ground floor of an office building in downtown Belfast during the morning rush hour.

Hours later, terrorists ambushed two Ulster detectives in a suburban Belfast shopping center, killing them with a burst of submachinegun fire.

The killings brought Northern Ireland's violent death toll to 146 in the past two years of Catholic-Protestant strife.

There was no evidence to prove the IRA guerrillas—fighting to unite the Irish island under the Irish republican flag—were behind the London bombings. But with a bomb threat against the Queen's opening of Parliament, police were taking no chances. Security measures were rehearsed in the House of Lords and the House of Commons. IRA spokesmen in Dublin, usually quick to claim credit for anti-British sabotage, denied the IRA had planted any bombs in London. But an anonymous telephone caller with an Irish accent, claiming to belong to a London branch of the IRA, said the secret army had blasted the Post Office Tower and that Parliament would be next.

Another anonymous phone caller claimed both London bombs were ignited by the Angry Brigade, an underground anarchist group that has planted half a dozen bombs here in the past.

In London, the explosions set off a rash of bomb scares. Police searched telephone offices, a television studio, Madame Tussaud's Waxworks Museum, a bank and the already blasted Post Office Tower after anonymous phone calls said explosives had been planted. All were hoaxes.

No one was injured in the London bombings, but six pedestrians and shoppers were hurt by the Belfast explosion. It went off in the heart of the city when shops and sidewalks were crowded.

Grand Valley Mobile Home Gutted By Fire; Family Needs Clothes

A mobile home owned by Kenneth Winters, was gutted by fire Sunday evening and was totally destroyed along with all furnishings and clothing of the family of six, said Charles Hollabaugh, chief of the Grand Valley Volunteer Fire Department that responded to the call at 8:40 p.m.

Apparent cause of the fire was an explosion in the furnace area with fire traveling through the heating ducts to all parts of the mobile home. The family escaped without injury, but one fireman, Robert Graham, suffered a cut hand while battling the blaze.

Total property damage is estimated at $10,000, said Chief Hollabaugh.

Anyone wishing to donate clothing to the family may use the following sizes: One girl, 5; one boy, 4; one girl, 3; six-months infant, and the parents.

Ellicott Attorney Faces Assault Charge

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Charged with third degree assault and third degree criminal mischief after an incident Saturday, Town of Ellicott Attorney Daniel A. Isaacson, 46, of 40 Westminister dr., W.E., will appear before Justice A.E. Harry Johnson at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

According to Ellicott police, Isaacson used the car he was driving to force another auto to stop on Howard ave. W.E. about 11:30 a.m. Saturday.

Daniel Westerdahl, 103 E. Everett st., Falconer, was driving the second auto, and Salvatore J. Ribauda, 16 E. Elmwood st., Falconer was a passenger, police said.

Campaign slogans for Ribauda's candidacy for town clerk on the Democratic ticket were being broadcast through a public address system attached to the auto, according to police.

Isaacson reportedly engaged in a verbal exchange with the two men, and then allegedly opened the car door and disconnected the PA system, police said.

Complaints filed before Justice Johnson following the incident also allege Isaacson used his fist to strike Ribauda in the chest.

Those wishing to donate clothing may leave things at Neely's Service Station, Grand Valley.

Men and equipment from the Garland VFD responded to the call on mutual aid basis.

Following the blaze, a spectator, Elsie Edwards, of RD 2, Titusville, was struck by a rear view on a passing pickup truck and taken to Oil City Hospital by the Garland emergency vehicle. She was treated and released.

Don't Vote Today

Don't vote today. What do you care about an off-year election? After all, it won't decide Vietnam policy, the state of the national economy, or even who you get to watch on those presidential prime-time telecasts. Today's election could only influence:

- the amount of taxes you pay on your home; we're electing county commissioners, borough councilmen and school directors, and all will pass or reject bills for more taxes in the next few years.
- the direction our one-county school district will take in educating our children and spending our money; we now have five of the nine board members appointed, rather than elected; the three elected today will serve for six years apiece.
- improved traffic flow, leaf collection, action planning, and low income housing in Warren Borough; the councilmen elected from eight wards today will pass on legislation affecting how fast we move from home to work or the grocery store, among other items.

- the administration of justice; we will elect a sheriff, two State Supreme Court justices, and a jury commissioner.

You can, of course, say that you don't like any of the candidates in a given election. But you can't let them know that unless you go to the polls and are counted as a voter. If the totals for a particular office are lower than the number of votes cast, the message is quite clear; if you just stay away, the message is muddled by the charge of voter apathy.

But, then again, you don't care about higher taxes, better schools, smoother traffic flow, or law enforcement, do you?

Your answer will be apparent when the number of voters is counted late tonight.

Byrd Isn't Buying

Byrd of Virginia isn't buying. That's probably the most simple way of stating that the senator from Virginia will vote against the Senate Finance Committee reporting out the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's proposed changes in the welfare program for action on the floor. He objects to the new plan for various reasons.

(1) It lacks adequate work incentives. (2) He doubts the wisdom of writing into law the principle of a guaranteed annual income. (3) The added cost of the program would be $5 billion above present welfare costs. (4) The number of welfare recipients would be increased from 12 million to 26 million. (5) An additional 80,000 workers would have to be hired to administer the proposed program.

In discussing his objections, the Senator said:

"I feel the government has an obligation to our fellow citizens who are physically or mentally unable to earn a living. But the revolutionary and expensive proposal of Secretary Richardson (HEW) goes far beyond that. It does not have adequate work incentives, nor does it have adequate provisions to keep off the welfare rolls able-bodied citizens who should be seeking jobs instead of handouts."

"The new welfare plan is not in keeping with—and indeed runs counter to—the President's anti-inflation efforts. It is not welfare reform. It is welfare expansion."

With the proposed plan adding $5 billion to a national deficit already expected to reach $33 billion in 1972, the senator went on to point out that the overall national deficit now stood at $409 billion.

"And an even more important objection, in my view," the senator said, "is that Secretary Richardson's 'revolutionary and expensive' plan would double the number of welfare recipients. With the huge deficits the government has been running, it is neither logical nor sound to double the number of people drawing public assistance."

Then, in reference to the 80,000 workers that would be required to administer the program, the Senator pointed out that when the Department (HEW) was organized in 1953 the employees numbered 35,000, now the department's personnel numbers over 110,000, with some estimates going as high as 117,000.

There are two sides to the "coin," of course. But it would seem that those who support the new welfare proposal will have a hard time coming up with an argument that sounds more rational or reasonable than the one the senator from Virginia has offered. However, the magnitude of the proposal is such that both sides should be heard, and listened to intently.

The New Air Fares

WASHINGTON — There are so many heads of state, presidents, vice presidents, premiers, kings, queens, prime ministers and emperors traveling to other countries these days that the airlines have decided to offer special air-fare rates to world leaders.

Freres A. Jacqua, chairman of the special fares division of the International Airline Assn., told me:

"The International Airline Assn. has just completed a study which shows that, as a group, world leaders are traveling more than any other profession. Therefore we have made special discount rates to assure they will go by air."

"That's wonderful," I said.

"We are trying to get world leaders to take their wives with them on their trips, so we are now advertising a new rate. If you are the head of your country and you are on an official state visit to another country, you can take your wife for $99 plus tax, providing you don't stay in the country for more than four days."

"It hardly pays for a leader to leave his wife at home at those rates," I said.

"If you can get 10 heads of state to travel together on the same plane, our airlines will offer a 25 per cent discount, and the leaders don't have to stay together once they land at the airport," he added.

"Too bad those fares weren't in effect when the Shah of Iran celebrated his country's 2,500th anniversary," I commented.

"We also have other special fares," Mr. Jacqua said. "If you're the vice president of a country and you visit any NATO dictatorship and stay for less than 30 days, you can take your secret service men with you at half fare."

"That's better than student rates," I cried. "Do you have any special rates for dictators?"

"Yes, we have a new totalitarian rate. Any dictator may fly at a 40 per cent discount providing he travels in uniform."

"What about heads of state who have been deposed in coups d'etat?"

"Any head of state who has been kicked out by a military coup may travel to any other country for 20 per cent less, providing he does not fly on the weekend."

"I imagine you also have a family plan for deposed leaders?" I inquired.

"We do. They can take one wife or two mistresses and up to 10 children for half price, but there is no discount if they go over their luggage allowance."

"Is there any difference in rates charged leaders of the Communist world and those charged leaders of the Free World?" I wanted to know.

"Every airline has its own policy on that. For example, El Al, the Israeli Airline, will give a discount to Soviet leaders, but only on a standby basis—they have to wait to board, to see if any seats are left."

"We also have arranged charter fares for the United Nations. We plan to fly Peking delegates to New York for $125 and Taipei delegates back to Taiwan for the same price. The reason we can charge so little is that the planes will be filled both ways."

"What about someone like Henry Kissinger, who is not a head of state but is traveling on business for the President?"

"He has to pay the full fare," was the answer. "But if he travels with a companion she can go for half fare."

Poff Quit To Spare Son

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — There's a poignant human story behind Rep. Richard Poff's withdrawal as a candidate for the Supreme Court.

Not only was his appointment assured, since he was known to be President Nixon's first choice, but a Supreme Court seat would have been the answer to Poff's dreams.

The dream began in 1940 when he served on the Supreme Court at the Virginia Boys' State. Not long ago, he confided to a friend: "I'd rather be on the Supreme Court than be President of the United States."

Yet he quietly turned down the opportunity and asked the President to withdraw his name before it could be put in nomination.

The main reason, we have learned, was Poff's deep love for an adopted son. The possibility that the sensitive, 12-year-old Tommy might find out that the Poffs weren't his real parents was too painful for them to face.

The thoughtful Virginia Republican has always put his family ahead of his career. He has protected their privacy so zealously that some colleagues call him the "Howard Hughes of politics."

Then suddenly, Poff found himself in the national spotlight, with his background under public scrutiny. Although only a handful of friends knew about the adoption, he feared the intense publicity could cause a leak.

POFF'S PROBLEMS

The Poffs had consulted psychologists who had advised them to wait until Tommy was 17 or 18 before telling him he was adopted. For an intelligent, sensitive

ON THE RIGHT

No. U.S. Vote?

By William F. Buckley Jr.

Back in 1945, critically-situated Americans dreamed of an evolving world federation, the inevitable result of a nuclear politics. The form such a federation would take was never clear, but it was hoped that the United Nations organization would prove adaptable. Into its composition the architects injected strains of prudence and reality, as also strains of idealism and egalitarianism. Thus the Security Council would guard the essential interests of the essential powers. And the General Assembly would have authority in matters of great consequence, largely dealing in areas where the moral force of the international body needed harnessing in order to advance the objectives of the UN, which are the objectives of Eagle Scouts.

A few years after its inception we discovered, hard on the experience of prolonged Soviet intransigence, that the Security Council was all but immobilized by the veto. It was then that we moved (successfully), to give more authority to the General Assembly, which emerged in the decade of the fifties as the primary focus of attention. During the same decade, and in the next decade, membership in the General Assembly multiplied, with the end of colonialism in the non-Russian world. And a feeling of collegiality grew among the nations of the so-called Third World. These nations dominate, numerically, the United Nations. And they move, in decisive blocs, to serve the interests of major powers on matters that for reasons grave and trivial, suit, episodically, their fancy. They are grown accustomed to a moral-sociological rubric which is altogether infectious, causing for instance the American delegate, Mr. Francis Plimpton, to proclaim proudly a few years ago that colonialism was dead, to say so in a chamber in which 13 nations metronomically do the bidding of a single state, the alternative being to lie down to receive its tanks and infantry.

Even so, the United Nations has its uses, and the United States would be mistaken recklessly to withdraw from it. But in weighing our relations with it, we should bear in mind that we are, (and let us always be), a square country, which believes in the rules of the game. It has not occurred to us, since Adams defeated Jefferson in the election of 1796, to do other than accept the verdict of the voting majority. The General Assembly of the United Nations, as we have just now seen, has the raw power (in effect), to admit to membership the de facto governors of mainland China, and to expel from membership the de facto governors of Taiwan.

We acknowledge that the General Assembly has the right to act as it did, but we recognize also that in virtue of our active participation in a procedure that permitted the result we have seen, we have become involved in a process that has caused a great injustice, and one which is, moreover, intolerable in the light of our continuing strategic commitments. I call on the President of the United States to instruct his ambassador to the United Nations to cease, beginning immediately, to vote in the General Assembly. To argue there, yes; to listen, yes; to plead; to explain; to cajole, threaten, conciliate, yes; to vote, never. Because to participate in the vote, given the American ethos, is psychologically to involve ourselves in the outcome of a vote which we cannot — as the world's major power concerned with ethical considerations — agree to do.

If the United Nations wishes to expel from membership all nations that resist domination by those other nations the United Nations at any particular moment desires not to offend, why let it do so; but let it not understand itself as engaged in writing the moral law. By a word, the President of the United States could effect the great reconciliation between the theoretical and the actual. If he does not give that word, he will have lost an opportunity for penetrating leadership.

But whether he gives it or not, the American people have given, however clumsily, the verdict with their feet. Imagine an American Administration that attempted to turn Taiwan over to the mainland Communists, as the United Nations implicitly recommends.

But we are a neat people, who desire an orderly relationship with the UN, whence the need for presidential action. Lacking Executive punctilio, we will know, intuitively, how to proceed. Soon, very soon, the parliamentary decisions of the United Nations will affect the policies of the United States about as much as decisions of the National Students Association, in solemn body assembled, affect the American academy.

IN THE NATION

By Tom Wicker

SAN FRANCISCO—People in most American cities are fed up with government that doesn't work, or doesn't seem to serve what citizens think is the public interest. Here in this sunlit city, something drastic is being done about it via Proposition T.

This is an initiative proposal on which San Francisco voters will ballot today while choosing a mayor and city supervisors and passing on 19 less spectacular propositions. At first glance, Proposition T looks ridiculous; if passed, it would prevent the construction of any building over six floors or 72 feet in height without the specific approval of the voters in a general or special election.

But support for this plan has mushroomed due to the construction in downtown San Francisco in recent years of 21 high-rise buildings, not many of them architectural gems; the city's skyline has been drastically altered, mostly for the worse. The sunny, open atmosphere that used to prevail here, many visitors and San Franciscans feel, has been invaded by too much steel, concrete, glass and greed. Argument rages in the city as to whether the high-rises are an economic asset or a liability, and as to their ultimate environmental effect.

Alvin Duskin, the leading proponent of Proposition T, argues that one effect of the high-rises is to provide jobs for white-collar commuters while driving blue-collar jobs and workers out of the city. On the other hand, City Controller Nathan B. Cooper estimates that passage of the six-story limit would raise the property tax by $1.44 (per $100 assessed valuation) in 10 years.

Whatever happens to Proposition T today, the controversy and emotion it has aroused are remarkable. Obviously, a sizable number of voters, conceivably a majority, believe the city's political structure and officials have been ignoring the public interest by permitting and even encouraging the swift growth of high-rise buildings. Proposition T, therefore, is essentially a means of giving the power of regulation directly to the people, rather than to elected officials and bureaucrats.

High-rise building may be an issue rather peculiar to San Francisco, but that is not the case with the underlying sense of powerlessness and the sudden urge of plain people to get some control over issues that affect their lives. These are sentiments common in American political life today, whether it is the question of uncollected garbage, ever-rising taxes, inefficient transportation, schools that educate no one, or wars that never seem to end.

California's initiative procedures give voters here some recourse that they do not have elsewhere; thus, Proposition T might not be a precise model for future people's actions in other cities. Its success, nevertheless, might well encourage other spontaneous movements against ineffective and unresponsive governments, and its mere existence, with so much support, ought to be a warning to politicians and bureaucrats and the overriding interests they so often serve at the expense of the popular will.

It is notable here, for instance, that those opposing Proposition T include the Chamber of Commerce, the major banks and corporations of the area, real estate and construction interests and the labor unions; Duskin is suing two public utilities for allegedly improper contributions to the opposition. Thus, although some minority leaders also oppose Proposition T, it is not hard for ordinary voters to get the idea that the city establishment is solidly lined up against the initiative and for high-rise building, with the backing of city officials, most of whom are also opposed to Proposition T.

All this may prove unfortunate, because Proposition T, if it became law, might well be a cumbersome and inflexible answer to the high-rise problem. Whatever the motivation of its supporters, its economic and other consequences are conjectural at best, and it appears to negate certain parts of San Francisco's much praised Urban Design Plan, which would permit some high-rise building.

For this danger, city officials and others opposing Proposition T have mostly themselves to blame. More rigorous control of high-rise building, which great numbers of San Franciscans obviously wanted in the past, might have avoided the vote to be taken today, and more nearly safeguarded the economic and environmental future of the city.

PENNSYLVANIA STORY

Old-Fashioned Local Election

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — It is true today's general election is neither a great presidential runoff nor a gubernatorial scramble — just a plain, old-fashioned local affair — but this year it does have some intriguing aspects.

For one thing it is the first general election to be held in the Keystone State in nine years with Democrats holding the governorship. Last time that happened was in 1962, the final year of the reign of the late Democratic Governor David Leo Lawrence.

Secondly, the upswing in the number of Pennsylvanians registered to vote as Democrats in today's balloting is interesting — and perhaps significant.

For example, Keystone State Republicans at general election time a year ago held a registration lead of 53,281 — the windup year of the Republican administration of former Governor Raymond P. Shafer.

Now, one year and the Democratic Shapp Administration later, it is the Democrats who have the registration edge — this time to the rather smashing tune of some 200,000.

Thus on the basis of troops in each of the major parties it is obvious that Republicans are losing their registration shirt to their Democratic arch-rivals — with dispatch and in no small fashion.

Perhaps the one bright light on the horizon for Pennsylvania GOPsters on the outlook front revolves around the rather odd fact that the past five Pennsylvania governorships have been won by the party in the registration doghouse — that is, the candidate of the party not enjoying the registration lead.

Pennsylvania's present (Democratic) chief executive moved into the gubernatorial throne room last year notwithstanding the edge held by Republicans.

The simple fact is that party registration today doesn't begin to have the emphasis, the decisiveness enjoyed in political yesteryear.

Gone is the thinking and almost solid conviction that just because you were registered Republican or Democrat, you had to and were expected to vote that way — that is, with the exception of a spate of metropolitan political hack holdouts such as populous Philadelphia and Pittsburgh where the ward-heeler system still holds forth in struggling tenacious degree.

And speaking of the Quaker City, today's race for the mayorship in that largest of Pennsylvania's villages has its interesting and intriguing facet — again from the registration standpoint.

Democrats in that metropolis enjoy the registration upper hand by close to 2 to 1 — and yet Democratic mayoral candidate Frank L. Rizzo is regarded in pre-election figuring as having only a slight advantage over Republican opponent Thatcher Longstrech.

Incidentally, a Democratic Rizzo win in this case cannot be considered anything approaching a "vote of confidence" in the policies and practices of the new-in-office Democratic Shapp Administration here on the Capitol Hill — for the enigmatic reason that during the primary this past spring Mr. Shapp opposed the Rizzo candidacy in no uncertain terms, calling him a racist and brutal cop among other endearing references.

Even after Mr. Rizzo made the grade in the spring primary, his (fellow) Democratic Excellency elected to keep hands off in helping Mr. Rizzo — deciding to remain "neutral" in this general election but anything but neutral in the primary!

It almost seems as though His Excellency has a penchant for doing things backward or in reverse, as witness his refusal to enter the inter-party general election fray but his entry into the intra-party primary scramble, his insistence of a tax program before submission of a spending-need budget, etc.

TREE FARMERS HONORED

Pennsylvania honored its Outstanding Tree Farmers of 1971 at a ceremony at Agricultural Progress Days held at the Agricultural Research Center of Pennsylvania State University. The recipients were Dr. R. Marvel Keagy of Altoona and Dr. Philip Hoover of Harrisburg for the progressive forest management practiced on the Tree Farm jointly owned by them in Bedford

Stock Market Prices Plunge To New 1971 Closing Low

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market plunged to a new 1971 closing low Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 13.14 points to 825.86, lowest level since last Dec. 23. On that day it closed at 823.11.

Monday's 13.14 decline was the largest single-day loss since Aug. 18, when the blue-chip indicator fell 17.73 points.

Analysts blamed the sharp downturn primarily on technical factors. They pointed out, however, that investors were still showing considerable uncertainty over the consequences of Phase 2 of President Nixon's economic program.

When the market failed to sustain the feeble rally begun last Thursday, many investors became disheartened, analysts said.

Then, when the Dow average fell below the 830 support level, a new wave of pessimism hampered prices even lower, they declared.

Once the selling began, there was insufficient buying interest to absorb the stock coming into the market, analysts explained, and this resulted in large price declines.

However, they noted that selling was quiet and orderly throughout the day, indicating that many traders continued to sit on the sidelines.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 10.96 million shares, compared with 11.71 million shares Friday.

Of the 1,686 stocks traded on the Big Board, 291 advanced, and 1,148 declined. There were 6 new highs and 138 new lows for the year.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks dropped 0.77 to 51.30.

Stocks were lower in virtually all categories.

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 5.1 to 303.5, with industrials off 7.5, rails off 3.8, and utilities off 1.0.

Forty-five blocks of 10,000 shares or over were traded on the Big Board, compared with a revised total of 118 Friday.

You have only 59 days left in which to take gains and losses on your stocks and bonds to minimize the tax you owe on your current and future securities transactions. Therefore:

(1) Find out exactly what your situation is NOW by listing all your transactions for 1971 and breaking down your profits and losses into short-term and long-term. A short-term gain or loss is one you realize on securities you held for six months or less at the time of your sale. A long-term gain or loss is one you realize on securities you held for more than six months.

(2) Check Schedule D of your 1970 Form 1040 for any capital losses which you hadn't used up. You can carry over your unused capital losses and use them in your 1971 Schedule D.

(3) Add up the results separately for the short and long-term groups to show the overall net gain or net loss in each group. If you have a loss in either group (say a long-term capital loss), use it to reduce any net gains in the other group.

(4) If after netting any losses of either group against any gains of the other, you come out with net short-term capital gains, you include the full amount in your ordinary income—just as you include dividends, interest, etc.

(5) If you have net long-term capital gains, you take only one-half of the amount into your ordinary income. In essence, half of your net long-term capital gain is exempt. Also limiting the taxing of long-term capital gains is the so-called 25 per cent maximum which applies only if you are in a tax bracket above 50 per cent—in which case, the first $50,000 of your long-term capital gains is subject to this 25 per cent tax ceiling. Any of your long-term gains over $50,000 are subject to a 32 1/2 per cent ceiling for 1971.

(6) If you have both net short-term capital gains and net long-term capital gains, include the entire amount of your short-term gain and half of your long-term gains in your ordinary income.

(7) If you have a net loss from all your 1971 transactions, look at the source of your losses to determine how much of your ordinary income can be cut.

The general rule is that you can deduct net capital losses up to $1,000 of your ordinary income. To the extent that your net loss consists of short-term capital losses—whether from 1971 sales or from short-term losses unused in and carried over from previous years—and of long-term capital losses also unused in and carried over from years before 1970, you can use the loss to reduce your ordinary income on a $1 for $1 basis up to $1,000.

But to the extent that your loss consists of long-term capital losses from sales in 1971 or from carry-over of long-term losses realized in 1970, you must use up $2 of such losses to reduce $1 of your ordinary income, again up to $1,000.

(8) If you're considering selling stocks for tax purposes, relatively small losses are rarely worth taking. The commissions and taxes involved in any sale and repurchase generally will wipe out the entire tax savings from a minor loss.

(9) If you decide to take a tax loss but still want to hold your investment, consider using any of these three methods: If you expect the market to go up in the next 30 days, double up NOW on your investment, then after 30 days from now take your tax loss on your original shares and retain the new shares on which you will have a profit. If you expect the market to go down in the next 30 days, sell your shares, take your loss and, after 30 days, buy back your original position. If you are willing to take a position in a similar company's stock, sell your original shares, take your loss and buy shares immediately in the similar company. (10) If, though, you want to freeze a paper profit in 1971 but don't want to include the profit in your income until 1972, have your broker sell short for you a block of shares identical to what you own and freeze your profit. Cover your short sale by delivering your shares after Jan. 1, and thereby postpone the tax on your gain until you pay your '72 taxes in 1973. Tomorrow: Contributions.

How profitable can

6% TAX-FREE

Municipal Bonds really be?

Since interest earned on municipal bonds is not subject to federal income tax, the net spendable income will be greater than the after-tax return from comparable, fully-taxable, securities and deposits.

How profitable can 6% tax-free municipal bonds really be to you? That depends on your tax bracket. The higher your bracket, the more attractive the tax-free feature of municipal bonds becomes.

This table shows the return investors in various tax brackets must get on taxable investments to equal 6% return on tax-free municipal bonds.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter works in a large office and is secretary to one of the bosses. He is 10 years her senior and has a nice wife and four children.

Mr. Boss spends more time at our house after work and on his days off than he spends with his own family. Our daughter is single. She never goes out with a fellow and never invites a girl friend over. It's always Mr. Boss.

I don't like this arrangement and have said so. Especially do I not like the way Mr. Boss buys my wife and daughter expensive presents—choice cuts of beef for dinner and gourmet baskets of food. I am sick of looking at this man's face and I have threatened to go to his wife about it. My daughter cries that I will ruin her life and my wife says if I go near his house she will personally kill me.

I think this man belongs at home with his wife and family. I also believe our daughter should start thinking about her future. Should I go to see the man's wife? Yes or no?—CHAOS IN THE MIDWEST

DEAR CHAOS: No. It would not solve the problem. It would only create others. The wife knows her husband is not home much—and she probably has a good idea where he is.

The only thing you can do is tell your daughter that Mr. Boss is not welcome in the house and if she insists on seeing him, she'll have to move. By entertaining this creep you and your wife are not only condoning but encouraging the relationship—which in my opinion smells like a lost barrel of herring.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been dating a young man for several months. He has a part-time job and goes to college. Rick has taken me to concerts, movies, plays and to dinner. Would it be proper for me to treat him occasionally? If so, to what? Would he be offended if I should offer to pay for something? Please educate me, Ann, I need it.—ANTIOCH READER

DEAR ANT: A girl should not "offer to pay" for anything but there are other ways she can reciprocate. If she lives at home, she can invite him to dinner. She could also buy some theater tickets in advance and invite him as her guest. She might also buy an occasional gift—a book he might enjoy, or an attractive necklace. Any evidence of thoughtfulness is appreciated and I recommend it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As feature editor of a midwestern metropolitan daily I handle your column before it goes to press. In the column that just reached my desk you used the term "groom" six times. Our style is to refer to the man who is being married as the "bridegroom." I have been told by journalism pros, city editors and society editors that a groom is a person who takes care of horses. Therefore, in order to make you look good and to conform to our style I changed your language.—ANONYMOUS PLEASE

DEAR NONY: When I received your letter I immediately took it to my editor for a high-level conference. He told me to stop crying (I was ruining his carpet) and then reached for the American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language. This is what he found: "Groom (noun) as a substitute for bridegroom is appropriate to all but the most formal contexts. It is acceptable on all levels in writing and speech, according to 90 per cent of the usage panel."

Thank you for wanting to make me look good. I need all the help I can get.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

St. Michael's Plans Anniversary Services

St. Michael's Byzantine Rite Catholic Church, Sheffield, is to mark the 66th year of its founding with special religious observances and a meal to its Patron Saint, Michael the Archangel, Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m. and during the Sunday Divine Liturgies.

Holy Communion is to be taken to the shut-ins Friday morning after the choral Divine Liturgy.

St. John Lodge, Branch 53, Providence Association, is to meet next Sunday after the choral Divine Liturgy.

Special commemorations in the church Sunday noted the anniversaries of the poisoning of the two Byzantine bishops by the Communists, both of which occurred on Nov. 1. Archbishop and Count Andrew R. Sheptytsky, OSBM, metropolitan and archbishop of Lemberg, Ukraine, was murdered in 1944 by the communists and Bishop Teodor Romza of Ruthenia in 1947.

Guests during the Eucharistic Liturgy of Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Martin Jeric, Parma, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Corkins, Cleveland; and Mrs. Mary Korman, Lakewood, Ohio. They are the daughters of the late Michael Vuksta, who was one of the founders of St. Michael's. Mr. Vuksta passed away at the age of 90.

Other recent guests of the Divine Liturgy and parish included The Rev. Dr. Basil Boysak, STD, LLD and The Very Rev. Hilarion Benedik, OSBM, both former pastors; and Mrs. Sophia O'Shea and daughter, Nadia, from Washington, D.C. Nadia returned recently from a two-year tenure in the American Embassy in Cyprus and is currently employed at the Pakistan desk in the State Department.

VFW Auxiliary Meets

Mrs. Willis Sullivan, President, presided at the regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to V.F.W. Post 631 last Thursday evening, October 28, in the Post room.

During the business agenda, it was voted to send a check to a hospitalized member in lieu of a gift. Thank you notes were read from recipients of gifts that had previously been sent. Announcement was made that delegates are to attend the Northwestern Counties Council meeting in Oil City on November 7 at the V.F.W. Club. The 19th District meeting is to be held at the Bradford V.F.W. Club on November 21. The special award went to Mrs. Richard English.

During the social hour following the meeting, lunch was served by Marie Belton and Edith Briggs. The next regular meeting is to be held at 7:30 p.m. on November 11 at the V.F.W. Club.

SOUPS ON

An interesting luncheon addition is made by floating a tablespoonful of crumbled American blue cheese on bowls of steaming soup just before serving. As the creamy, blue-marbled cheese begins to melt, it imparts a zesty flavoring to any creamed or meat stock soup.

Warren First Presbyterian Church Site Of Rieder-Tillard Vows

Elizabeth Ann Tillard and Terry L. Rieder were married at the First Presbyterian Church, Warren, by Dr. Ross Porter, pastor of the church, in a 4 p.m. double ring ceremony October 23, 1971.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin G. Tillard, 119 Dartmouth st., Warren. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Rieder, 63 Musante st., Warren.

The couple stood before an altar which was decorated with baskets of white gladioli with lavender and purple asters. Traditional wedding music was played by organist Carroll Fowler, and John Tillard, a brother of the bride, was soloist.

For her wedding day, the new Mrs. Rieder chose a gown of Ivory faille taffeta in a princess style. Baroque style Venice lace was applied on the molded bodice, forming the high scalloped collar. Bands of the lace were also repeated on the full Camelot sleeves and circled her wrists. The full skirt of the gown formed a sweep train.

A chapel length veil of Ivory illusion was caught to a high cloche of the matching Venice lace. She carried a large gladioli bouquet fashioned with grape ivy and ribbon.

Mrs. John A. Tillard, Warren, was chosen as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Dawn Marie Azvath, Pittsburgh; Jan Rieder, Warren; Kathy Johnson, Cleveland; and Judy Stuart, Warren.

The attendants were dressed alike in floor length gowns of orchid chiffon with purple velvet empire bodices. Purple crocheted lace over orchid formed the wide cuffs on the long bishop sleeves. Purple velvet bonnets held the butterfly veils.

The attendants carried colonial bouquets of purple and lavender asters and purple statice, with white feathered fuchsias and grape ivy.

Jennifer Ludwig, York, Pa., a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed in miniature to the adult attendants with short puff sleeves on her floor length gown. She wore purple bows on her pig tails in place of a veil. She carried a small basket of lavender asters, white miniature carnations and purple statice.

LADIES BOOTS

Your snow boots and fashion boots, ladies, shall they be genuine leather or man-made leather? Genuine leather, of course, looks richer, has more depth. It is porous and "breathes", which ventilates the feet and lessens that clammy feeling. Leather boots will normally be warmer in very cold weather. However, synthetic leathers with adequate lining can be equally warm, but they do become stiff in cold weather. Synthetics do have the advantage of being waterproof—dirt and salt is more easily removed than from leather. Genuine leather, however, can be made more water resistant and dirt repellent with sealant products which we will be happy to recommend.

Legislation Discussed At State Grange Convention

The Pennsylvania State Grange is headed into its centennial year following the 99th annual session at Somerset where action on some 100 resolutions reaffirmed established policies and charged some new guidelines for the state's oldest continuously active farm family fraternity.

Joining the grange official family was Herald Pentz, Rockton, Clearfield County, who was named to the finance committee. The only other election was that of Peter Karenbauer, Chicora, Butler County, who starts a new term on the executive committee. Both will serve for three years.

Pentz, a year ago, was named 1970 "Granger of the Year", a title that this year went to Mrs. Allen D. Grove, Entrioken, Huntingdon County. She received a $50 check and plaque from the Farmers and Traders Insurance Company, co-sponsor of the contest with the grange.

Another award of $200 from the National Grange Mutual Insurance Co., co-sponsor with the grange of a civic-oriented "Pride in Pennsylvania" contest, went to Mahoning Grange, 1732, Indiana County.

A Wayne Readinger, state master, termed the 4-day session "one of the best" in recent years. He said total attendance came near to 2,000 to equal previous highs for these events. He announced next year's 100th meeting is to be held at Williamsport where grange work in Pennsylvania started in 1871 in the establishment of Eagle Grange at nearby Montgomery.

National Master John W. Scott, Washington, immediate past Pennsylvania master, complimented the grange for an "excellent convention program." He urged the grange to key its activities to changing needs, but to "hold fast to the principles" which have made the Patrons of Husbandry a distinctive and world-renowned farm-oriented organization.

Added national flavor was provided in the dispatch of a telegram to President Nixon asking him to release immediately all unallocated funds remaining from the 1971 appropriation, and also those for 1972, to the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP), formerly ASCS.

A resolution which passed unanimously said this program, directed mainly to soil conservation has been of proven benefit to farmers and that its continuance is vitally needed by American agriculture.

Appropriate national legislation was urged to correct excessive over-production of feed grains, especially corn which now is facing its largest carry-over in 17 years, a situation the convention termed a "certain depressant on prices" with a resulting reduction in farm income.

Asserting that real estate bears a disproportionately heavy tax burden over that collected from other sources, the convention urged a more equitable levy on all sources of tax income.

Earning power rather than fair market value was asked as a criteria for taxing farm land and open space lands with the provision that when land in these categories are diverted to other use taxes would be assessed at a pre-arranged prescribed formula.

Legislation pending in Congress and in the State Legislature, commonly known as the Agriculture Marketing and Bargaining Act of 1971, was given a flat "no" by the delegate body. Generally it was regarded as unwieldy, inoperable, technically unsound and particularly unfair to the new or small producer. Instead, the grange voted to support legislation for extending the authority of Federal marketing orders and agreements to all commodities.

Under dairying the convention voted in favor of electronic milk testing and opposed any effort to weaken the Milk Marketing Board. It endorsed a proposed referendum for advertising milk, opposed any cut in milk for school lunches and for military personnel, urged that all jug milk operations be placed under the jurisdiction of the Milk Marketing Board, and called upon its own members to help control pollution. An amendment to the milk sanitation law was urged to make all inspections a state function but in conformity with U.S. public health regulations.

Continued cabinet status for the U.S. Department of Agriculture with the secretary directly responsible to the President, rather than have it split up among other departments got vigorous support.

To make the Pennsylvania Farm Show available to more visitors, the convention asked that its closing be extended from Friday to Saturday at 4 p.m.

A renewed request was made for establishment of a veterinary school at the Pennsylvania State University.

Inclusion of "areas of agribusiness" in vocational agriculture was favored to strengthen that program.

State testing of all truck scales to capacity was sought to assure accurate weight, also a required special test and licensing of persons who drive trucks of over 30,000 pounds gross weight.

Opposition was renewed to hand gun control, to proposed "land grab" legislation giving the state right to take land in fee simple, and to the taking of "extensive" agricultural land for recreation projects.

Under another resolution welfare payments would be denied to anyone refusing work for which he is qualified, even though he may dislike such employment.

Low rear bumpers for trucks as protection for automobiles was voted and a stand was taken against making the Pennsylvania Turnpike a free highway.

Hint From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Recently I had to clean several small items with upholstery shampoo and needed only one cup of liquid.

After trying to make foam with my egg beater, I hit on the idea to put the liquid in the blender.

The foam was thick and creamy; what's more, when the foam needed thickening up it took only two seconds. And one can use the shampoo right down to the last drop.

Election Seen As Barometer Of Shapp's Popularity

HARRISBURG (AP)—Political observers are looking to Tuesday's municipal elections as a barometer of the popularity of Gov. Shapp's administration.

Outside the hotly-contested mayoral race in Philadelphia—which pits well-known former police commissioner Frank L. Rizzo against Thacher Longstreth, a Princeton-educated liberal Republican—the municipal elections haven't aroused much interest outside their own areas.

The Philadelphia race could affect Shapp's control of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic National Convention next year. Should Rizzo win, he would be in a good position to challenge Shapp's control of the delegation. A victory for Longstreth would give Shapp complete control of the Pennsylvania representation.

Political watchers are keeping a close eye on the two races for Supreme Court judge. In an abstract sense, these two races are the only statewide measure of the popularity of the new Democratic state administration of Shapp.

Republicans are anxious to see how they fare in contests for county row offices, because there's much political clout to be derived from control of county courthouses.

Another indicator of Shapp's popularity will be mayoral contests in 17 Third Class cities. In four others incumbent mayors are running for re-election without opposition.

Philly Demos May Win On 'Rain Check' Voting

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The harsh oratory has tapered off with last-ditch appeals for voter support Tuesday in Philadelphia's bitter battle for mayor between an ex-cop handicapped by the Democratic incumbent and a Republican reformer fighting political bossism.

While law and order and racism have split America's fourth largest city into black and white camps and disintegrated party labels, rain might be a major factor in the expected close contest. The weatherman has forecast periods of rain, heavy at times, during most of election day when the city's 1,756 polling places open at 7 a.m. They close 13 hours later.

Bad weather won't hurt Democrat Frank L. Rizzo, the former police commissioner, as much as his Republican challenger, W. Thacher Longstreth, who is counting on a record turnout of more than 80 per cent of the 966,000 registered voters. Democrats outnumber Republicans 2 to 1.

Both candidates are predicting victory—Rizzo by 130,000, Longstreth by 50,000—but their guesses likely are far off the mark.

Most political observers say Rizzo, backed by retiring Mayor James H. J. Tate who under law can't seek a third term, probably has an edge of around 25,000. The observers forecast a turnout of around 750,000 which would be a record outpouring in a mayoral election.

It is also the most expensive battle for the city's top job, with each side pouring in around $1 million. Additionally Rizzo spent $300,000 in the primary to topple four opponents, while the unopposed Longstreth had expenses of $8,200.

Democrats have controlled the city for 20 years, winning the mayoral for the first time in this century in 1951 to end 68 years of GOP rule.

Rizzo, 51, a high school dropout who followed his immigrant

There are two special elections, one involving a Congressional seat and the other a state legislative position.

Voters in the 18th Congressional District of Allegheny County will choose a successor to fill the unexpired term of the late Rep. Robert J. Corbett, a Republican.

The candidates are: John E. Connelly, Democrat; H. John Heinz III, Republican and member of the wealthy pickle family, both of Pittsburgh, and John E. Backman of Gibsonia, representing the Constitutional party. The winner will take office immediately.

Luzerne County voters in the 118th Legislative District will be filling a vacant seat in the state House of Representatives, that of the late James Musto, Democrat of Pittston. One of Musto's seven sons—Ralph Musto—became a candidate on the Republican side when the Luzerne Democratic organization endorsed Roscoe J. Mulcahy. A victory for Musto, who is also running on the Peoples party ticket, would strengthen the Republican minority in Harrisburg. Again the winner takes office immediately.

The race for state Supreme Court has been low key. The Republicans, incumbent Supreme Court Judge Alexander Barbieri, 64, and President Judge George E. Eppinger, 50, of the Franklin County Court, have been criticized for aligning themselves with the "conservative" Constitutional party.

father to the force 28 years ago, built a national reputation as a crime fighter and likes the nickname, "Supercop."

Longstreth is 50, a former city councilman and executive director of the Chamber of Commerce who was a football star at Princeton University and won many decorations during World War II.

What makes this election almost unpredictable, and has given pollsters fits, are expected wholesale switchovers—Republicans for Rizzo and Democrats for Longstreth.

Rizzo, the city's first Italian-American candidate for mayor, is banking on GOP votes in heavily Italian South Philadelphia and in the northeast where the majority of the city's 125,000 Jews dwell.

Longstreth, on the other hand, is counting on massive support from the 270,000 normally-Democratic blacks, plus desertions of middle-class liberal Democrats.

This is Longstreth's second crack at the mayor's job. He lost the first time in 1955 against Richardson Dilworth.

Dilworth now has endorsed Longstreth. So has Joseph S. Clark, a former U.S. Senator, who was the Democrat who shattered the GOP grip on City Hall in 1961 and started the renaissance of Philadelphia that Longstreth claims has been stifled under Tate.

"Philadelphia can be as good as it used to be," Longstreth says.

Valuable Guns Found In Home After Arrest

WESTFIELD, N.Y.—The Sheriff's Department has impounded a house at 335 E. Main st., recovered a large cache of valuable fire arms and is attempting to determine ownership of several other items, many of them new, found in the dwelling.

The action stemmed from the arrest last Sunday afternoon here of William D. Adams, 23, of the East Main address and reported to be a native of Wichita Falls, Texas.

Chautauqua County Sheriff Merle A. Campaign said Adams initially was charged with illegal possession of a shotgun and resisting arrest. The defendant was committed to County Jail at Mayville after arraignment before Westfield Town Justice Kenneth Hemmer. Campaign said additional charges are expected to be filed against Adams.

The sheriff said that as a result of the original arrest the Westfield residence was searched. Officers seized 12 fully loaded pistols, some of them antiques and of various calibers; a Beretta shotgun valued at $1,200; an old inlaid rifle valued at $700; three other expensive rifles with telescopic sights, a quantity of ammunition, several gun cases and a pickup truck believed to have been stolen in Texas.

The sheriff said two new Honda motorcycles were found in the basement and a large quantity of other items, most of them new, have been found throughout the residence.

Campaign said that many of the goods are believed to have been stolen and contact has been made with Houston, Texas authorities in efforts to establish their ownership.

The investigation is continuing with Sheriff Department investigators, Westfield Police Chief Floyd Black and resident FBI agent Raymond A. Angle Jr., Jamestown, participating.

Two Burglaries Being Investigated

Deputy Sheriff Douglas I. Irvine is investigating two burglaries reported last week.

A cutting torch and tanks were stolen from a trailer in Mead Township owned by William Streich of RD 1, Clarendon. The second incident, according to complainant Ralph Mosher of Buffalo, N.Y., involves a burglary at a hunting camp on Brown Run rd. The property is owned by Nick Mangus of Warren.

Ohio Sheriffs Expecting Trouble As Mine Operators Plan To Reopen

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Sheriffs in eastern Ohio asked Monday for standby aid in event of trouble when 18 coal mine operators resume work Wednesday in the face of a United Mine Workers strike.

Some said they expect trouble from striking miners before the reopening.

The operators in five eastern Ohio counties have contracts with independent unions not affiliated with the UMW now in the second month of a nationwide strike. They closed last week because of threats from roving pickets.

The operators, banded together into the Ohio Coal Operators Association, served notice they plan to reopen Wednesday and asked authorities for protection for workers and equipment.

The 18 operators employ upwards of 2,500 miners, mostly in stripping work.

Small bands of roving pickets were reported in several counties along the Ohio river asking mine operators to either shut down or remain closed. Few mines in the 150 miles of river front from here to Ironton have remained open since roving bands of pickets last week asked them to close, or in some incidents, made threats.

The Jefferson County sheriff's office said "a few extra men have been called in" in event of trouble.

The Franklin County sheriff's office at Columbus reported it is "on standby for civil disturbances from rioting mine workers." A deputy described many eastern Ohio areas as "tense but not out of order."

"We'll go wherever we are needed," deputy Don Hancel said.

Sheriff Harry Bailey of Harrison County said he had talked with sheriffs of Jefferson and Belmont counties about help. He said he joined with Sheriff George Neff of Belmont County in a request for standby help.

Bailey said a garble in the transmission of the request created an erroneous impression that riots had broken out. He said response to this prompted him to put out a corrected request asking only for standby help in event of trouble.

"The only thing we want is standby help in event it is needed," Bailey said. "There may be a few people coming in here tonight and staying over. But I'm not aware of any number of men that may come."

Paul R. Carapellotti, president of the Ohio Coal Operators Association, released a telegram he said he sent to Gov. John J. Gilligan, Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, sheriffs of Belmont, Carroll, Columbiana, Harrison and Jefferson counties and to Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio.

Bill Introduced To Amend Terms Of Appointed School Directors

Legislation to amend the terms of appointed school directors, introduced in response to a situation existing in Warren County this past year, has reached the floor of the Pennsylvania Senate, reports State Senator Richard C. Frame.

The bill, Senate Bill 790, was introduced by Frame and Sen. Reibman in response to a Times-Mirror and Observer editorial noting that five of the nine county school district directors were appointed, and that some of them had several years to serve on a term before being voted on by the public.

As the law presently stands, an appointed member serves out the balance of the original member's six-year term. The bill would change his term of office to be in effect until the first Monday of December after the first municipal election occurring more than thirty days after his appointment. At such an election, states the bill, an eligible person shall be elected.

The net effect of the bill is to limit the terms of appointed directors to a maximum of two years.

Frame reports that the bill should be in position for passage in the Senate upon its return to session after the election.

"We hereby request the protection of all state and local law enforcement bodies in the lawful pursuit of our business and to provide for the safety of our employees and property," it stated. "It is requested that your office alert all law enforcement bodies under the authority of the state of Ohio and that you order their assistance for the protection of our employees and property in the resumption of our operation."

Carapellotti is operator for Starvaggi Industries which has more than 500 miners working mostly in stripping operations in Jefferson County.

A spokesman for Gilligan's office acknowledged the telegram and said the governor stood by a statement of a week ago that he is determined to see laws enforced. "We want to make it clear that violence and vandalism will not be tolerated," that statement said. "To accomplish this the law enforcement resources of the state will be employed to the degree necessary to insure that all laws are enforced."

"In addition assistance will be provided as needed to local law enforcement agencies," Atty. Gen. William J. Brown said he had received a copy of the telegram.

"The governor and I and some other people went over this a week ago and the answer is still the same," Brown said. "The governor's office has jurisdiction."

"He said then he won't tolerate any breaking of the law. As far as I know he hasn't changed his mind."

He said he had no knowledge of any specific plans to back up Gilligan's statement.

WE BUILD

'It's Never Too Late' Blanda, Football's Number One Scorer

OAKLAND (AP) — The loudspeaker at the Oakland Coliseum played George Blanda's recording of "It's Never Too Late" as the Oakland Raiders and Kansas City Chiefs warmed up on the field.

And before Sunday's game ended, Blanda was in there at quarterback proving he knows what he's singing about.

The 44-year-old phenomenon saved the Raiders from defeat a second straight week with a performance amazing enough to bring Sammy Baugh or even Frank Sinatra out of retirement. He also became pro football's all-time scoring leader with a field goal that gave Oakland a 20-20 tie in the closing minutes.

"What better place to get the point I needed than in a game where we came from 10 points behind the tie," Blanda said later.

Blanda replaced starting quarterback Daryle Lamonica in the fourth quarter with the Chiefs leading 20-10 and got the Raiders back in the game quickly by hitting Fred Biletnikoff with his 232nd career touchdown pass.

The late field goal was the 26th of his career and gave him 1,609 career points. Former Cleveland Browns' star Lou Groza, whom Blanda considers the best placekicker in National Football League history, scored 1,608 points.

Blanda, in his 22nd pro season, wasn't really appreciated until his 21st season.

He rescued the Raiders in the final seconds throughout 1970, and his postseason honors included The Associated Press Athlete of the Year Award.

In between banquets and television appearances, Blanda was talked into the recording session for "It's Never Too Late."

"I enjoyed the off season and wouldn't have traded the experience with anybody," Blanda says. "But I found out one thing—I'm basically a football player, not an after-dinner speaker."

Blanda's return to 1970 form is good news for Raiders fans. But it's bad news for Ken Stabler, 25, who was considered the

No. 2 quarterback until Coach John Madden called on Blanda a week ago Sunday against Cincinnati.

The oldtimer directed two touchdown drives in the last quarter and the Raiders won a see-saw game 31-27.

"I'm always hoping I'll go into a game, so I wasn't surprised when the coach picked me," Blanda said.

In the Raiders last two games, Blanda has completed five of eight passes for 107 yards and two touchdowns.

His streak of 201 consecutive extra points—second longest in NFL history—was broken by a blocked kick this season. But he's 9-for-12 on field goal attempts.

Denver Olympics Challenged

DENVER (AP) — While Denver says it will host the finest Winter Olympics ever, others aren't so sure it'll host the Games at all.

Denver was awarded the 1976 Winter Games on May 12, 1970, by the International Olympic Committee, meeting in Amsterdam. Since that time the subject has been replete with attack and counterattack from politicians, environmentalists and area residents as to the adverse effect the Games might have on Colorado's environment, economy and taxpayers.

Adding to the confusion, rumors have circulated recently in Europe that the Games might be transferred to Sion, Switzerland, runner-up in the 1970 selection process, if new proposals Denver must submit to the IOC do not fulfill Olympic conditions.

pushing ahead with its planning and has fielded flawlessly everything the opposition has thrown at it.

The most recent criticism was reported in an article prepared for Ski Magazine, in which the magazine's European correspondent said Sion has received "confidential" word from IOC officials that it might have a chance to stage the Games if Denver's new plans fall through.

According to the article, the IOC has been displeased with Denver's proposal to change Nordic and Alpine event sites to areas that are more than three hours by car from Denver.

"That report has no official support or status," Brown says.

Brown said the IOC has been in touch with the IOC and has received a letter from the U.S. member of the IOC, Douglas Roby of Detroit, substantially discounting the report.

"To my knowledge there has been no severe criticism in the IOC with reference to Denver," Roby's letter to DOC said.

"When you made your report at Luxembourg Sept. 15 my feeling was that it was well accepted and there was no discussion whatsoever with reference to Denver in our meeting after your committee left the room."

Finances also are reported to be a potential problem as the carping, much of it political, continues.

According to the French publication, L'Equipe, the cost of building required installations for the events will be enormous and "it may be wondered whether Denver—chosen without much thought by the IOC—will not be forced to withdraw if the state of Colorado, or even the federal government, refuses to assume costs which are so unprofitable."

"Finances are our biggest thrust right now," Brown admits. "We're following a critical planning chart. We met with the Office of Management and Budget in Washington, D.C., recently and they're encouraged."

Booing Leads Coaches To Resign Head Posts

DETROIT (AP) — The booing from the hometown fans cost Detroit pro sports two coaches over the weekend as Doug Barkley of the Red Wings and Bill van Breda Kolff of the Detroit Pistons handed in their surprise resignations.

Barkley, a 34-year-old veteran of the National Hockey League, resigned just before the Wings took the ice at Detroit Olympia Sunday night and handed Pittsburgh a 3-1 setback.

"I just could not live with the pressure of 15,000 fans booing and the pressure from press and television and radio," he said in explaining his decision.

Detroit pro fans were still recovering from the surprise of the Barkley decision when van Breda Kolff walked into the Pistons' office Monday morning and announced his resignation.

He had signed a two-year $45,000 a year contract only two months ago and had won two games over the weekend in National Basketball Association play.

"The Detroit fans are supposed to be very good ones but I don't think they are insofar as loyalty is concerned," van Breda Kolff said.

"The fans really get to you, especially when you hear them say how dumb you are and things like that," explained van Breda Kolff.

The 45-year-old NBA coach came to the Pistons two years ago after coaching the Los Angeles Lakers for two years. He led the Pistons to their best record in history last year—a 45-37 win-loss mark. They are 6-4 at the moment.

Pistons General Manager Edwin Col said van Breda Kolff "approached me last Thursday night and said he was going to quit."

Col said, "I tried to talk him out of it and after we won two games over the weekend, I figured everything would be okay but then he came into my office today and said the resignation stood."

Van Breda Kolff told news-men at the Pistons' office following his resignation that he had no intention of coaching either pro or collegiate basketball again.

"I'd like to get an administrative job in sports or maybe do some announcing or broadcasting but I have nothing definite in mind," he said.

"With a job, you have to have a feeling you are doing it well and that you are enjoying it ... I know I was not enjoying it and I don't know whether I was doing it well," he said.

"Coaches are not machines or hardened pros who can shake off the booing of the fans just like that," he said. "On the road, you expect the boos but not at home."

NBA Following Baseball To Court

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An attorney for Philadelphia 76ers' holdout Wally Jones today filed an antitrust suit against the National Basketball Association.

The attorney, Richard G. Phillips, was seeking damages in excess of $5 million for Jones.

Jones, a 29-year-old guard, was unable to come to terms with the 76ers prior to this season. He earned an estimated $45,000 last season but is presently under suspension and earning no salary.

The suit is primarily an attack on the NBA's reserve clause which binds a player to a club until he is traded or retires.

The suit also attacks the player draft system and the proposed merger of the NBA with the American Basketball Association.

Jones' suit in U.S. District Court is similar in principle to the action filed by former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg in behalf of baseball player Curt Flood seeking $3 million in damages from Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and all the major league clubs. He brought his suit after the St. Louis Cardinals for whom he had played for 12 years traded him to the Philadelphia Phillies in October 1969. He refused to report and sat out the 1970 season.

Big Football Talent Uncovered At Small C.W. Post College

GREENVALE, N.Y. (AP) — A lot of people don't know where C.W. Post College is.

"I get air mail letters and long distance phone calls from New York City," says Herb Machol, sports information director of the school, which has 5,600 full-time undergraduates and is located on suburban Long Island less than 30 miles from the big city.

A lot of people don't know where C.W. Post College is, but professional football scouts aren't among them. They've been coming en masse to get a look at quarterback Gary Wichard, the nation's College Division choice to follow Louisiana Tech's Terry Bradshaw and Augustana's Ken Anderson as high draft picks from small colleges.

"He may have the best arm I've ever seen," says Y. A. Tittle, quarterback coach of the New York Giants and a former star passer himself.

The arm has unleashed 180 passes in six games this season for 105 completions (58.5 per cent), 1,601 yards, 15 touchdowns and only five interceptions. Only 25 of Wichard's 598 career passes have been picked off by the opposition.

"He's a good, strong, durable kid," says Coach Dom Anile of his 6-foot-2, 210-pound signal caller. "He's at least as good as any quarterback in the country, if not better. If he were at Stanford, he'd be called the second Jim Plunkett."

"He drops back as quickly as anyone and he backpedals without the quarter-turn most drop-back passers have. That enables him to start reading the defense earlier. Very few quarterbacks in the country can do that. He gets there backpedaling as quickly as the others do with the quarter-turn.

"I've always professed that good quarterbacks are naturally gifted by God and there's very little a coach can do. You've either got an arm or you don't. We can help with reading defenses, things like that, and Gary does that real well. We do a lot of throwing to secondary and tertiary receivers and we go to our fourth and fifth receivers occasionally. Gary does that real well, too."

Wichard wasn't a highly sought-after quarterback when he graduated from nearby Glen Cove High School, mainly because the coach didn't believe in a passing attack.

"I don't think I threw more than five times a game," Wichard recalls, "and that was only because I was really pushing it. We just didn't have any passing plays."

Besides, he was more interested in basketball and baseball. But he sent films of himself to Post and the University of Louisville.

"Louisville told me if I couldn't play quarterback, I looked like I could run a little," Wichard remembers.

At Post, Anile, then an assistant coach, remembers that in the films he saw, Wichard "threw a few passes off rollout action but they were the short stuff and very little of it, not enough to get us overly interested."

Then, Anile played a hunch. Wichard's brother, Neil, played baseball at Post and told Anile about his baby brother with the slingshot arm.

"His brother told me he could throw the ball and I said, 'Let's find out,'" Anile recalls. "We really didn't know if he could throw the ball, but as a freshman we realized he was a very talented boy.

"We didn't start him in the opener his sophomore year because we didn't feel he knew the offense well enough. But we were getting our clocks cleaned by Northeastern and in the fourth quarter he moved us for a score and the job was his after that."

"I didn't decide to go to college until the middle of my senior year in high school," says Wichard. "And I wasn't looking to play football. I liked basketball a lot and I played some baseball but I always ended up doing better in basketball. I was going to work on my basketball, but when the time came for freshman football I decided to give it a shot."

So now there are two quarterbacks on Long Island with white shoes, although the other one—"Joe Namath, he's my man"—is hurt. After his sophomore year, Anile told Wichard he'd earned the white shoes.

Not that Wichard needed anything to bolster his confidence.

"When I read what Tittle and the others say, I believe it. I believe that if Tim Carr (Wichard's record-setting predecessor, who was drafted by the Los Angeles Rams) was a senior and I was a sophomore, I'd beat him out. That's the way you have to think."

Nicklaus Leads With Record 65

HOBBART, Tasmania (AP) — Jack Nicklaus fired a course record-equaling 65 and grabbed a five-stroke lead over two fellow pros from the U.S. tour Friday after two rounds in the $24,200 Qantas Australian Open Golf Championship.

Nicklaus' seven-under-par round, coupled with an opening 68, gave him a 36-hole total of 133. Former PGA champion Dave Stockton, with 70-68, and fiery Dave Hill, with 69-69, were tied for second at 138.

Gary Player of South Africa, who like Nicklaus has won all the major pro championships, shot a 69 for 139 which tied him with Graham Johnson, an assistant pro from Perth who had shared the first round lead with Nicklaus. Johnson shot 71.

Bruce Crampton of Australia, another regular on the U.S. tour, almost matched Nicklaus' round when he shot a 66 for a score of 140, tying the veteran Kel Nagle of Australia.

WBA Withdraws Jose Napoles' Title

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Athletic Commission suspended and withdrew title recognition today from world welterweight champion Jose Napoles of Mexico on charges that he and his manager had failed to fulfill a contract with a Syracuse, N.Y., promoter.

The manager, Alfred Cruz, also was suspended.

Commission Chairman Edwin B. Dooley said Napoles and Cruz had contracted with the Canasota Boxing Club, Inc., to fight an opponent named by the promoter within 120 days of Napoles title fight with Billy Backus of Canasota last June 4 in Los Angeles.

The opponent named by the Canasota Boxing Club was Backus.

Napoles, who had lost the title to Backus in Syracuse Dec. 3, 1970, won it back in the June 4 match.

Second Thoughts

Notes & Quotes
From The Sports Staff

Franklin 24, Warren 20
Well, what's another year to wait for a football championship for 13 seasons? One season begins to look like the last, but Warren had all the chance afforded to at least co-own a Section II trophy. All it would have taken was to set Franklin in its place. But a 24-20 score indicates otherwise, doesn't it?

Right there in the first quarter, Warren had its clutches around the Knights' neck, leading 14-0, and the Franklin gallery squirmed and fidgeted as Warren held command of the evening's, what looked to be a one-sided show.

Then a feeling of "I've seen this before" whittled its way into the game for Warren folk, when the Dragons were losing ground and points. It did bare a semblance of the Jamestown game, Warren was losing its grip, slowly, but surely. Warren didn't break down altogether, but it seemed as though, after the game when analytical viewpoints were tossed around, the Dragons, by a consensus of opinions, reached their plateau early in the game—a 14-0 lead—and were rubbing the stomach with that well-satisfied or after-dinner feeling.

The first mistake Warren made was getting caught with an unnecessary-roughness call that aided a late first quarter Knight march. A total of six bucks and slants later, Franklin had scored to dull Warren's razor-sharp command. Tom Bright, who probably doesn't get credited with all he's done this year, with 808 yards rushing and 10 touchdowns—176 of those in this particular game—had carried the ball for what looked like a first down on fourth-and-inches when the ball popped out of his arms and under the chest of Franklin's Corby Allen on his 30. A first-showing of Amos Otis' speed ticketed the Knights for another touchdown destination, as the sawed-off speedster galloped through Warren's slower and less-reactive defense for a 35-yard haul before being hauled down from behind by Mike Piehuta. The deterring tackle didn't derail the drive; seven plays and a minute and one-half later, Law squirted through the line for a score, after chewing a hole in Warren's right wall on four straight plays earlier.

From the 40 of Franklin on the next series, Warren appeared to have an ostensive scoring threat constituted, but an over-thrown pass to Piehuta in the clear, over the middle, took the gusto out of the fired-up movement....Persistent and relentless, what Warren seemed to lack in spots, Franklin came back with a hook-up of a 31-yard aerial bulls-eye between Frank Trinch and Brad Crawshaw. Safety Piehuta and Crawshaw went up for the ball—both with an ownership grip on the inflated leather object, but the judge—the referee—indicated the ball belonged to whom it was originally intended.

Franklin knew it had Warren on the run, and with the right amount of fortune and self-assurance it came back in the second half and dominated play for the greater part. Moving down to the 23 of Warren on a slow but steady progress, the Knights stretched the Dragon defense to its limit. Warren regained its composure and squelched the drive. On the following series, Bright turned on the after-burners, picking up 25 yards in two carries....but on his third try lightning struck again—another fumble. Ironically, on this gift, as on the last, Franklin benefitted greatly. On a second-and-five, Law ran into a reception line at the 47 of Warren, but made a hasty departure en route to a pre-arranged destination—the end zone.

Without a visible break of good luck, Warren fought gamely. Taking the pigskin from its 31 and moving to the 21 of Franklin, where it was first-and-ten, Coach Toby Shea decided to sting the Knights with an aerial bombardment. Two targeted bombs to Piehuta and Jim Stromdahl, respectively, were errant. On a fourth-and-eight, where the consensus of opinion agrees that Warren made its last gasping lunge for victory, Bright took a handoff from quarterback Rob Young; then stopped dead in his tracks, lofted a wobbly high-arched fling to Piehuta. The prima donna of an end juggled the sphere after being rudely lifted into the air by a not-so-mannerly Franklin back. There was a question as to whether he held onto the ball, but the referee settled it by returning the ball to its original point before the play.

Franklin then marched for 81 yards to score its third TD; Warren came back fighting for its first score since the first period. Coach Shea then called for a 10 man line for the extra points. His reasoning: Get within two points and then come back for a field goal to win by a point. The points-after failed, and Warren never saw the ball again.

In mentioning Bright's name earlier, it was inadvertently omitted that he needs 13 points to break the all-time scoring record held by Dan O'Neill, and 88 yards to erase Steve Tundel's rushing record. Guard Dave Dunn is as fierce a competitor as Warren has possessed in quite some time. From the onset of the game, he had arrived in Franklin to play football. In the first six Franklin assaults, he was in on every tackle. He and end Jeff Myers were a couple of the superlatives in a meaningful loss.

Westfield 44, Eisenhower 2
Ball control will usually win games—usually. That was not the case Friday night at Westfield, however, as the Eisenhower Knights executed 36 more plays than the Wolverines, but came out on the short end of the score, 44-2.

In the first quarter, Ike ran 22 plays and gained 74 yards on the ground. Westfield ran just seven and gained only five yards, yet led 7-0 on a 97 yard punt return by Jim Scarpine.

The second period was more evenly divided on plays. The Knights held a slight 18-17 edge, but the yardage totals read, Westfield 49, Ike minus 12. Another TD and a pass interception, which ended the period, also added to Westfield's advantage.

The third quarter was only close in plays run. The Wolverines ground out 178 yards in 12 plays for two touchdowns, while Eisenhower could manage just 21 yards on 13 efforts.

The last eight minutes were unbelievable. Westfield had just four plays and in its only series, two Wolverine passes were incomplete and on third down, quarterback Doug Peck was nailed for a safety. Westfield's final play of the game was a Peck pass to Scarpine, covering 32 yards for a TD.

The Knights, meanwhile, were going with the ball 22 times, but not very far. They picked up just 45 yards, and were stopped on third and fourth down dives at the one-foot line. They also had two passes intercepted, with one returned for a touchdown.

The Wolverines' backfield gained 224 yards, and look at the figures—Scarpine, eight carries, 38 yards, 3.8 average per carry; Jeff Corcoran, five carries, 60 yards, 12 average per carry; Rob Gizzi, six carries, 88 yards, 14.7 average per carry; and Peck, five carries, 34 yards, 6.8 average per carry.

Mike Luvison was Ike's leading ground gainer, getting 68 yards in 17 attempts. His longest run was for 20 yards in the first period.

Lack of passing hurt the Knights, as Curt Carlson and Luvison could click on only one of 15 attempts. Carlson was zero for 12 and sacked for an 11-yard loss while trying to pass.

Luvison threw three times in the fourth quarter and hit one for five yards.

Carlson, Ike's punter, had a busy evening, being called upon six times. His boots traveled 228 yards for a 38-yard average. In the third period, he boomed one 53 yards, pinning the Wolverines on their own four-yard line.

New Sensation, Young, Hits 287

Rob Young is rapidly becoming the "hottest" young bowling sensation since the likes of Jack Kifer about seven years ago.

The junior kegler split the plastic-sheathed maples over the weekend for a sensational 287 line. After rolling 10 strikes in succession, Young left a clothesline—the 3-6-10—on the 11th roll. For the three game set, he knocked over one of his highest personal sets—a 658.

Lions, Packers Play To Tie

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — The Detroit Lions, playing their first game since the death of wide receiver Chuck Higgins, battled to a 14-14 tie with the Green Bay Packers Monday night in a game of missed scoring opportunities played in a driving rain.

The tie dropped the Lions into third place in the National Football Conference with a 4-3-1 record behind from winning Minnesota, 6-1 and Chicago, 5-2. The first quarter ended in a 7-7 tie, with both teams scoring before Detroit had run its play from scrimmage.

On the third play of the game with Green Bay at its 34, rookie quarterback Scott Hunter went back to pass and his raised arm was hit by defensive end Larry Hend. The ball popped loose and defensive tackle Bob Bell picked it up and ran 25 yards for a Detroit touchdown.

The Packers took the kickoff and drove 65 yards in seven plays, with the key a 41-yard burst by John Brockington which carried to Detroit's two-yard line. Dave Hampton sliced off left guard for the touchdown on the next play to pull Green Bay into a 7-7 tie.

Mahovich NHL's Top Goal-Getter

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Mahovich, who has scored 12 goals in Montreal's first 10 games, is off to the best National Hockey League season start in six years but Phil Esposito remains the over-all scoring leader.

Not since Bobby Hull scored 14 goals for Chicago in the first 10 games of the 1965-66 season has anyone done so well. It was that year that Hull went on to finish the season with a then record 54 goals.

Mahovich, who now has 433 goals in regular season action, fifth highest in history, could become the first player ever to set goal scoring marks with three teams if he eclipses the Canadian totals of 56 shared by Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion. He already shares Detroit's 40 with Gordie Howe and is along with a high of 48 for the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Mahovich, who two assists for a total of 14 points, is tied for sixth overall with Richard Martin of Buffalo. Bob Sheehan of California and Murray Oliver of Minnesota in the weekly statistics released Monday.

Second to Boston's Esposito, who has seven goals and 12 assists for 19 points, are New York's Rod Gilbert and Boston's Bobby Orr. Gilbert has six goals and 11 assists and Orr four goals and 13 assists.

Ellis' Hat Trick Keys Leaf Win
TORONTO (AP) — Ron Ellis scored three goals Monday night to lead the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 6-1 National Hockey League victory over Detroit and spoil John Wilson's debut as coach of the Red Wings.

Knights' Kickoff Moved To 2 P.M.
Saturday's game between Eisenhower and Cassa/Laga Valley scheduled for 1:30 p.m. on Ike's home field has been moved back to 2 p.m., according to school officials.

Later in the period, Detroit's Errol Mann was short on a 47-yard field goal, but got another opportunity after a penalty gave the Lions the ball again. This time, Mann missed from the 39.

Each team scored in the last minute of the first half, which ended in a 14-14 tie.

The Packers took a 14-7 lead with 58 seconds left on Hunter's one-yard sneak after Dave Robinson recovered Steve Owens fumble at the Lions one-yard line.

Donny Anderson's 50 yard punt had rolled on to the Detroit three one play earlier.

Another Anderson punt also rolled dead on the Detroit Three to start the period. However, Greg Landry took the Lions out of the hole by running 41 yards to the Lions 43 on third and 10.

The Lions sustained the drive behind the straight power running of Owens and Albie Taylor until Owens' fumble was recovered by Green Bay's Al Randolph at the Packers' 21. With Green Bay unable to move, Anderson punted Detroit into the hole which led to the Packers' touchdown.

But the Lions came right back, going 65 yards in four players, aided by a roughness penalty on the kickoff that gave the Lions the ball on their 40. Landry passed 49 yards to Charlie Sanders for the tying touch down with 17 seconds left.

The score remained 14-14 through a scoreless third period, with Green Bay missing a field goal and a Detroit drive stalled by another fumble.

Detroit's Al Clark returned the second-half kickoff 55 yards to Green Bay's 47 and a 15-yard pass from Landry to Earl McCullough carried to the 29. But after Taylor ran 12 yards to the 17, linebacker Fred Carr tore the ball from his grasp and ran it back to the 30.

Hunter attempted and completed his first pass of the game—a nine-yarder to Carroll Dale—as the Packers marched to the Lions 34. But after two incomplete passes, Hampton was held to a two-yard gain on third down and Lou Michaels'

39-yard field goal attempt was wide to the right at 6:23 left. The Lions took over on their own 20 and drove to the Packer 34 as the quarter ended.

The Lions continued their drive as the fourth quarter started, reaching the 24 before being set back by an offside penalty. Mann's 32-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Fred Carr.

Opening lead: King of ♣.
Since hearts are worth more than diamonds, most North-South contestants tried for the major suit slam when today's hand was dealt in a recent tournament. An unfortunate block in the diamond suit led to disaster for these pairs and we will leave it to the reader's judgment whether or not this is an illustration of: "Greed not paying off."

Where the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram, North and South reached the impregnable contract of six diamonds. North opened the bidding with one heart and South made a two over one response. North's holding was worth 19 points in support of partner's suit, and he properly jumped to four diamonds. South could do no more at this point than show his heart support by returning to four hearts.

When his partner made a slam try by cue bidding the ace of clubs, South accepted but in a way that presented a choice of contracts. While the five spade bid would normally indicate first round control in spades, the partnership appeared to be solid elsewhere and it was South's intention to reassure North that two immediate spade losers were not in the offing. Rather than pick the suit himself, South resolved to leave the decision to North. When the latter proceeded to six diamonds, South passed.

The play was routine, no matter what was led. Where West opened the king of clubs, the ace was played from dummy. Trumps were drawn in three rounds. Five rounds of hearts were cashed, discarding the eight and jack of clubs from the closed hand and one trick was conceded to the ace of spades.

At several tables, either South or North proceeded to six hearts to obtain the benefit of the higher score awarded to a major suit contract. The block that developed in the diamond suit proved fatal to this endeavor. Where East led the ace and another spade, declarer usually drew three rounds of trumps and then cashed the king and queen of diamonds. If the jack drops on either the first or second round, North can continue safely with the ten, and then overtake the eight with dummy's ace to play off South's long card and shed declarer's deuce of clubs.

When the jack does not drop early, however, South must win the third lead with the ace and now North's eight of diamonds blocks the suit and there is no way to reach dummy's seven for the necessary club discard. With either a club or spade lead, declarer cannot avoid losing one trick in each black suit and must go down to defeat.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

DIET DURING PREGNANCY

Dr. J. P. Greenhill's book, "The Miracle of Life" (Year Book Medical Publishers, Inc., Chicago), devotes a long chapter on how the pregnant woman should take care of herself. The importance of diet is stressed even the fetal growth does not depend entirely on the food intake of the mother. A developing fetus can be likened to a parasite; it takes what it needs. If the substance is not in the mother's diet, he takes it from the maternal tissues, often to her detriment.

According to Dr. Greenhill, this is avoided by eating a well-rounded diet plus additional milk and plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. But never "eat for two" because the excess food does not benefit the fetus; it is stored as fat by the pregnant woman.

The proper diet contains from 1,800 to 2,000 calories a day and results in a total gain of 20 to 25 pounds. There is no harm in adding a few more pounds unless the woman has high blood pressure, abnormal findings, or both. An underweight woman can eat a bit more when pregnant; she should not diet strenuously.

The author suggests drinking eight glasses of liquids per day. Milk is ideal because it contains water, proteins, fat, sugar, minerals and vitamins. One quart a day is ample. Use common sense in drinking alcoholic beverages. Meat, eggs and vegetables, such as peas and beans, are excellent sources of protein. Cream, butter, cheese, oils and fat meats furnish fats. Carbohydrates are found mainly in sweets, sugar, bread, potatoes, cereals, milk and rice.

Minerals important during pregnancy are calcium, phosphorus and iron. These are found in milk, fruits and vegetables. If iron is in short supply, supplements may be needed. Vitamins also are found in many foods. Iodine also is important and is found chiefly in seafoods.

TOMORROW: Numb, Tingling Hands.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SKELETON'S GENDER

S. M. writes: How can we tell whether the skeleton in our science department is male or female?

REPLY

The female pelvis is flatter and the opening is wider and more oval. The long bones of the male are coarse, in contrast to the more delicate bones of the female. There are many other differences, but they are unimportant. Dr. Harold Davenport, who taught anatomy at Northwestern University Medical School, said that variations are so common he could not tell the skeleton's sex in nine out of 10 cases.

TEST FOR ANEMIA

C. W. writes: Is there a blood test for pernicious anemia?

REPLY

Yes, To make the diagnosis, the blood cells must be counted and studied under the microscope and the iron content determined. In addition, the blood is tested in response to treatment with vitamin B12. An increase in certain blood elements (reticulocytes) is evidence that pernicious anemia exists.

THE CIRRHOTIC LIVER

R. W. R. writes: Is cirrhosis of the liver a form of cancer?

REPLY

No. Ordinary type cirrhosis is caused by destruction of the liver cells that are replaced with scar tissue. In some instances, however, the cirrhotic liver undergoes cancerous degeneration. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this condition.

Happiness is cooking with gas... and not having to clean the oven.
Creative cooking is fun... when you have a range that cooperates with you. And that's one of the beauties of a clean, modern gas range. Gas lets you prepare a meal, that looks like you slaved over it... but you don't have to slave over it. About all you have to do nowadays is just turn it on. And it does that instantly. Then all the automatic cooking controls let you do something else. And you don't even have to clean the oven anymore... with automatic cleaning.
In short, a modern gas range is for people who love to cook... and for people who hate to cook. But mostly, for people who like to eat.

We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime.
Can you ever read these notices without a pang? There, you think, goes someone's husband and father. Someone's friend and associate. There, but for the grace of God, go I.
And besides the enormous human tragedy, there is the huge cost to business. Over 90% of cancer deaths occur after 40. That's when most people in business and the professions reach the peak of their careers.
At the American Cancer Society we're working feverishly to change all that. We're close to some very exciting developments. One is a routine blood test which, if it's proven effective, will save thousands of people from cancer of the colon and rectum. And colon-rectum cancer is the second biggest cancer killer, right after lung cancer.
We're so close. It could be your firm's contribution that will put us over the top.
We're making progress in dozens of other cancer research areas, too, and they all cost money. Please be generous. We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime.

WHY ...

Do Stores Start Christmas Before Thanksgiving?

That's the question that's often asked and it deserves a sincere answer!

Your newspaper appreciates the spirit that prompts many of the objections to early Christmas shopping promotions. However, when the reasons for the urge to "Shop Early" are examined, the most critical agree it's MORE than a problem for stores alone.

So we're happy to take this opportunity to present some of the problems that confront all stores at holiday time.

Every successful store directs its best effort toward perfecting a helpful service to ALL its customers. And since many customers ask stores to make it easier for them to complete their gift shopping before the crowded post-Thanksgiving period, Christmas merchandise and displays are brought forward early to accommodate them.

And scarcely a major store in the nation could cope with the store traffic that would be generated if any part of early Christmas shopping was postponed until after Thanksgiving. Even under present circumstances most stores are strained to capacity during the peak of the season, to maintain the kind of store service all shoppers have learned to expect.

When you recall the extremely crowded conditions of stores the final two or three weeks before Christmas, the problems become evident.

If no early Christmas shopping were done, this condition would be multiplied many fold. (Actually there would not be enough room behind store counters for enough sales people to serve shoppers during this period between Thanksgiving and Christmas.)

The same condition exists in regard to the children's visits to Santa Claus. Thousands of children and their parents look forward to their annual visit with him, and unless he makes an early appearance, many hundreds would be doomed to disappointment, simply because it's physically impossible to reach him in a shorter time.

Those in the store business know that an extremely large percentage of the Christmas gifts that are selected are items that are in plentiful supply the entire year.

If you were to ask the thousands of retail employees... they would tell you that much of the stress and strain of their Christmas would be relieved if the shopping public would anticipate Christmas shopping throughout the year. (Then, you would seldom hear your friends in retailing remark, "I'm simply worn down to my knees by Christmas Eve.")

Granted that the problem is not a one-sided one, it should be recognized that stores are faced with the problems of convenient service to customers, of maintaining helpful employee relations, of providing a place where those of the public who can not, or do not, plan ahead may select the traditional gifts for their loved ones and friends.

We are sure that if all of our storekeepers could chat with you, personally and informally, that you would be convinced of their sincerity, and that in the true spirit of Christmas they would not be criticized for their effort to perform a helpful service to their shopping public.

IN 'FIDDLER' CAST

Warren Players Cast Prepares For 'Fiddler'

Tevye, the hero of "Fiddler on the Roof", wonders early in the play what his life would be like... "If I were a richman." His poor existence as a dairyman in the Czarist Russian village of Anatevka is sadly lacking in riches.

His only wealth, in fact, is his wife, Golde, and five daughters; Tzeitel, Hodel, Chava, Shprintze and Bielke.

In the upcoming Warren Players production of "Fiddler", scheduled for November 12 and 13 in Beatty Auditorium, Tevye's family represents another kind of wealth — a wealth of acting experience.

Golde is played by Lois Byham. Once again she is cast as the mother — she's had similar roles in the Players' productions of "Music Man", "Picnic" and, just last season, in "Rashomon". In the Playwright Playhouse production of "The Subject Was Rose", several seasons back, she also portrayed the mother.

Her past experience in musicals includes "Li'l Abner",

Forester Heads Nat'l. Association

Samuel S. Cobb, a former Warren area forester and currently director of the Bureau of Forestry, Department of Environmental Resources, was elected president of the National Association of State Foresters at that organization's annual meeting in Honolulu last month.

Cobb is the third Pennsylvanian to hold the presidency since the association was organized 51 years ago by the late Gifford Pinchot when he was Commissioner of Forestry in Pennsylvania.

A graduate of Penn State, Cobb began working for the state Department of Forests and Waters in 1939. He was assigned, at various times throughout his career, to district offices in Pottsville, Blain, Warren, Wellsboro and Bloomsburg.

Tionesta Man Held On Assault Charge

TIONESTA—An RD 1, Tionesta man was charged with assault with intent to kill following a shooting incident Saturday at a hunting camp, located one and a half miles east of Tylersburg in Clarion County.

John Machen Jr., 50, RD 1, Tionesta, was arrested by state police and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Walter Maxwell. He was committed to Clarion Court Jail.

The victim, Telford Lebda of Baden, owner of the camp, was hit in the chest by a shotgun pellet. He was not treated for the injury.

According to police, Lebda was inside his camp when he heard a shotgun blast. He opened the door and was struck in the chest by a shotgun pellet fired by Machen.

M/Sgt. Nosel Receives Bronze Star Medal

M-Sgt. Larry Nosel

Master Sgt. Larry D. Nosel, son of Mrs. Helen Nosel, 3 Hazeltine st., Warren, was recently awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in Vietnam, where he served for one year with the U.S. Air Force.

Nosel is also credited with being one of two Air Force men to design a "fail safe" device for unit flight facilities recorders that could prove useful to similar Air Force units. The design was perfected during the period of time the Warren man was stationed in Okinawa.

A graduate of Warren High School, Nosel has been in the Air Force since 1956 and is presently stationed at Water-town, N.Y. Air Force Base. He is married to the former Mary Lou DiTonto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo DiTonto, of Warren.

Woman Shot, Police Probe Circumstances

KNOX—A 26-year-old Knox woman is in Clarion Hospital under treatment for a gunshot wound following a mysterious shooting early Sunday near Knox.

Darlene Kay Stewart was hit by a bullet on her left arm, below the elbow.

A 52-year-old RD 1, Knox woman was arrested by state police following the shooting and has been charged with assault with intent to kill.

Ruth Stevens, who is facing the charge, was committed to Clarion County Jail until bail can be set. She was taken before Magistrate Paul E. Wilshire in Clarion.

The shooting took place at 1:30 a.m. Sunday, four miles west of Knox along Route 208 in Salem Township.

Police reported Ruth Stevens fired a .22 caliber rifle at a group of persons in the back yard of the August Stilller residence located about 150 feet west of the Stevens home.

State Audit Figures For Two Justices

The office of the State Auditor General has released results of a periodical audit of business transacted by two Forest County Justices of the Peace.

The record from August 12, 1970 to July 8, 1971, shows that Arthur D. Sager, Tionesta, Pa., collected vehicle code violation fines in the amount of $3,544; fines for motor boat violations totaling $705 and a total of $1,205 for game law violations. These amounts were paid to the proper state agencies.

Sager also collected one fine of $50 for a sausage law violation, which was paid to the Dept. of Agriculture.

The audit of the books of Justice of the Peace James C. Peters of Marienville, Pa., Jenks Township showed no cases during the period from August 1, 1970 until July 31, 1971.

Navy Petty Officer First Class, Fred L. Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Connie Henry, 24 S. South st., Warren, is on an extended cruise in the Mediterranean aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Inchon, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

Both ships will be participating in training operations with other U.S. Navy ships, aircraft groups and assault units.

Thanks to a ham radio operator in Hummelstown, Pa., Mrs. Jeffrey McComas of Warren talked to her Air Force husband Sunday night. Jeff, who is a helicopter pilot and son of Mr. and Mrs. Don McComas, former Warren residents now living in Florida, was contacted 2,500 feet over the South Pole by the radio operator. His wife, Jane, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Cashman of Warren.

Warren Mayor Wayne Painter is trying to discover the history behind the borough flag that hangs in council chambers. Since the time the flag was created, the meaning of the related insignia has become obscured to the point where no one directly connected with the municipality remembers exactly what it represents.

The caricatures in the insignia are similar to those in the flag of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania except for a plowshare, which appears in the center of the borough seal.

An Oregon historian is writing a book about municipal flags and how they came into being. He has requested Warren Borough, as one of the 14 local governments in Pennsylvania with a flag, to provide some historical information about it.

30-Mill PUC Realty Tax Said Offset By Surcharge

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania business taxes constitute an extremely touchy issue and one of the most sensitive nerve points is the new 30-mill realty tax on public utilities.

The black and white of it, largely instigated by the Shapp administration, pits the consumer against the utilities. But there are many shades of grey that get lost.

Basically, what happened was that the tax, enacted in 1970 by the legislature, was offset by a surcharge — passed along to the consumer. The surcharge was allowed the utilities by the Public Utility Commission (PUC).

The administration's cause, championed by Revenue Secretary Robert P. Kane in recent days, condemned the surcharge and accused the PUC's head, George I. Bloom, of sacrificing the consumer for the utility.

For some time, Gov. Shapp had been advocating a plan whereby the PUC, an independent regulatory agency, would be absorbed along with several other stage agencies, by a Department of Consumer Affairs.

Last week, the Revenue Department distributed $20.7 million collected under the realty tax to 2,800 local government units in the state, and Kane took time to assail Bloom and the surcharge which he contended negated the realty tax.

Bloom stood fast, countering Kane's remarks by saying the surcharge actually saved the consumer money.

He noted that the realty tax was one of four additional tax burdens placed on the 620 utilities. He referred to enactments in late 1969 and February 1970 that boosted the rates of the capital stock tax, the corporate net income tax and gross receipts tax. These three, in addition to the realty tax, burdened the utilities with an additional tax bill of at least $120 million a year.

"Despite numerous telegrams and telephone calls from utilities for full retroactive recoupment of the taxes, the PUC rejected those appeals, saving customers at least $72 million in back payments," a statement from the PUC said. So then, what about the consumer? Is he being treated unfairly? Does the tax place an undue burden on the utilities when compared with the taxes of other businesses?

Federal figures show that residential electric bills are higher in several other states, including those surrounding Pennsylvania.

Some recent figures also show that of each $100 electric, gas and phone utilities make, $33.52 goes for taxes. The rest goes for dividends and interest. This compares with $18.39 for manufacturers and $20.56 for the mining industry.

Utilities are being pushed to provide more and more service. This requires massive construction, which must be bond-financed. But if dividends are relatively low, a bond market cannot be secured.

Bloom has referred to this problem many times. A recent PUC release said: "The new and increased taxes constitute a legitimate cost and, unless compensated for, will seriously impair the return of utilities at a time when many of them, particularly the electric and phone groups, are engaged in unprecedented construction programs to assure adequate service and facilities."

"These large construction programs must be financed by attracting funds from investors. Such attraction will be difficult in many instances, impossible in others, if the returns of the public utilities are permitted to decline appreciably as a result of these tax increases, and their security ratings are jeopardized."

The 30-mill tax applies to $620 million in electric utility property, $190 million of phone property, $70 million in water utility property and $60 million in gas utility property.

Pay Raise Bill Signed By Shapp Before Elections

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shapp signed legislation Monday providing pay raises for county row officers and third class city mayors and councilmen who are elected Tuesday.

Both measures passed the legislature last week when the House and Senate interrupted their election recess to put the bills in position for adoption before the balloting. The reason for acting before the voting is that officials are not entitled to pay raises enacted after they win office.

Shapp said he signed the county pay bill reluctantly. "I would have preferred legislation permitting local officials to set their own salary scale," the governor said. "Also, I believe some of the salary increments set by this legislation are too high. However, if I were to veto this legislation, many deserving county officials could not receive a salary increase until 1975."

Raises for mayors and councilmen apply to those in government covered under the Optional Third Class City Charter Law.

Dr. Frisbey estimated the number of employment opportunities for Penn State graduates dropped between 40 and 50 per cent.

Armco Head Asks Apology From Senator

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — William Verity, president and board manager of the Armco Steel Corp., said today he has asked U.S. Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., for an apology and retraction of statements Harris made about the steel industry.

Verity said the statements were "full of distortion and economic misinformation." Harris spoke at a Democratic meeting in Middletown Oct. 14.

He said Harris, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, claimed steel prices had risen three times as fast as wages since President Nixon took office.

The Armco president said in his letter that prices have risen 22.8 per cent since January 1969 while wages have increased 29 per cent.

Verity said Harris also claimed there was a lack of competition in the steel industry and that steel producing technology in this country had fallen behind that of foreign countries. He called those statements "without fact."

Graduate Recruitment Off In '71

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Business and industry recruitment of graduate students from Penn State was off somewhat during 1971 which, according to a school spokesman, reflected "the general downward trend in employment and the (national) economy."

According to figures compiled by Dr. Norman Frisbey, associates director of student aid and placement, the number of employers conducting interviews was down 23.8 per cent from the previous year.

Dr. Frisbey estimated the number of employment opportunities for Penn State graduates dropped between 40 and 50 per cent.

Third Graders Eligible For Writing Contest

Third grade students of Warren County will have an opportunity to participate in the Henry Z. Walck, Inc. Creative Writing Contest for 1971-1972, a nationwide contest for third grade students. Mrs. Ellen H. Eberly, Children's Librarian, has announced that Warren County students may submit their entries through the Warren Public Library.

Boys and girls are asked to write an original story to accompany the pictures in "The Christmas Kitten," a picture book without words, by Ruth Carroll. Entries will be judged on story, content, style, grammar, spelling, and neatness.

First, second, and third prizes will be awarded to the winning pupils and to schools or libraries who submit winning entries. In addition, there will be one hundred honorable mention awards to pupils and their participating schools and libraries.

Entries may be handed in to the Warren Public Library starting Friday, Nov. 5, and will be accepted through Friday, Dec. 10, 1971. Winners will be announced May 12, 1972. Official rules and lists of the prizes to be awarded are now available at the local library.

Mrs. Eberly stated that copies of "The Christmas Kitten" will be placed on a one week loan basis during the contest period. One copy of the book will be retained for use in the library.

In 1970 when the library submitted entries from Warren County third graders, Laurel Zorn, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Zorn of Tidioute, was one of the 104 winners in the contest. Laurel's story for "The Chimp and the Clown," received honorable mention.

Third grade students interested in entering the creative writing contest are invited to stop at the library for copies of the rules and lists of prizes. Mrs. Eberly will be happy to discuss any questions students may have.
